

Meyer passed away peacefully on the 14th of December aged 89. After obtaining a doctorate at the University of Illinois he won a Fulbright scholarship to study in Holland. He became a professor of physics at Michigan State University. In the 1960s he went to Brookhaven National Lab where he worked on low temperature physics and superconducting magnets for 30 years. Meyer loved sailing on the Great South Bay and watching W.C. Fields movies. He is survived by his wife of 50 years Alison, son, William, daughter Sarah Wolf, son-in-law Dan Wolf, grandsons Charlie and Ben and nieces Ellen and Carol Kline.
